READY ABOUT SEPTEMBER 25HILDA LESSWAYS

By ARNOLD BENNETT

Author of "Clayhanger," "Denry the Audacious," etc.

Large 12mo. $1.50 net

This is the story of Hilda Lessways, who is seen in "Clayhanger" through the eyes of the hero. The author has in "Hilda Lessways" accomplished the difficult task of telling the woman's story and showing her point of view.

The result is a tremendously convincing piece of fiction. The work of Arnold Bennett is generally conceded to be among the best that is being written by present day novelists.

Concerning "Clayhanger," The North American Review says: "It throws into the shade all the novels of the last decade. . . . 'Clayhanger' is a very great novel."

READY ABOUT OCTOBER 15THE HEART OF LIFE

By PIERRE DE COULEVAIN

Author of "On the Branch"

English version by ALYS BALLARD

$1.25 net

"On the Branch" has the distinction of being the most popular novel in France written by a woman, and one of the best novels of the year in America.

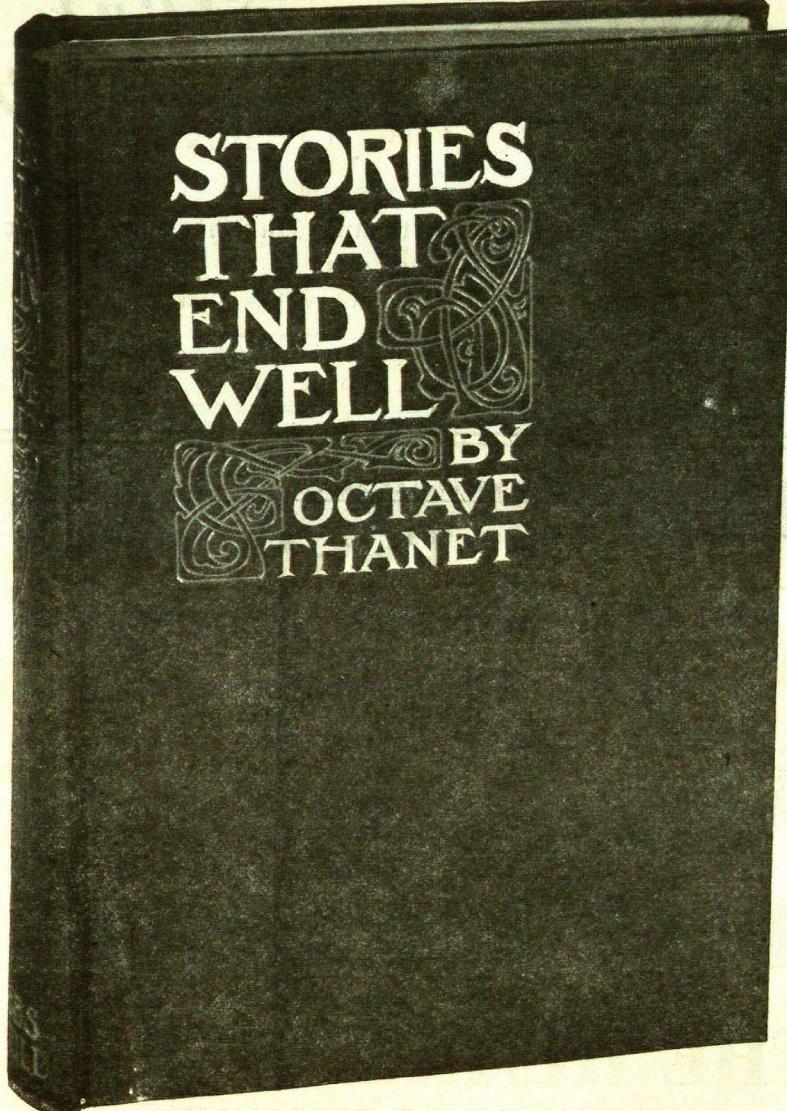

"The Heart of Life" describes the married life, the estrangement, and the coming together again of a young married couple. It is told with all the charm and intimate knowledge of European life of to-day which make this writer's work so remarkable.

By OCTAVE THANET

Author of
THE MAN OF THE HOUR

OCTAVE THANET'S versatile qualities are manifest in eminent degree in her new book of short stories, containing, as it does, some of the most striking things she has ever done, both in conception and in execution. They are models of good story-telling, marked by vitality of theme, simplicity of plot, naturalness of character, delicacy of touch, distinction of style, and true and right feeling. But after all, it is the genial humor, the happy view of life which is their most pervading characteristic. The reader invariably finds himself in a pleasant frame of mind at the close. He has good reason to be anew to Octave Thanet.

A Person of some Importance

A New Novel

By Lloyd Osbourne

SINCE the golden days when he wrote with Stevenson, Lloyd Osbourne has told no tale comparable to this. Its opening and its closing chapters are in those adventurous South Seas, where they worked together on The Ebb-Tide and The Wrecker. With the return to the locale of their mutual labor, the brave and gallant spirit of R. L. S. seems to inspire his pen, and it does not desert him when the scene shifts to a New England village.

A Person of Some Importance is a book of some importance, one of those rare and happy portals through which we reach the shining fields of Romance.

PUBLISHED TO-DAYMADAM MYSTERY: A Romance of Touraine*By MAY CROMMELIN, author of "Lovers on the Green," etc.

"Madam Mystery." A young heroine living in a manor house among Devon moorlands is failing under family cares and is ordered abroad for a change. Next she is one of a gay young party enjoying sight-seeing among the castles of the Loire, where they fall in love—fall out; puzzled all the while by a personage calling herself by the heroine's name. This will-o'-the-wisp double constantly precedes or follows them, refusing to explain her existence or to be met. In the end this hide and seek game ends by the lady being caught after she is becoming dangerous. Who is she? the novel might be called. Who she is brings the merry hunt among the Touraine castles to a satisfactory end.

This is a striking gift book for children, the text made up from the most interesting and appropriate writings dealing with the senses to be found in literature. The selections have been made by a school teacher of wide experience in the choice of readings which are both attractive from the child point of view and educational in value. The book will, therefore, be found extremely useful as well as diverting and joyous.

These pictures are among the most popular that Jessie Willcox Smith has ever done. They have attracted universal attention both in their serial and separate picture form, and a large audience awaits their book presentation. The book will be one of the most attractive and popular of the holiday child books.

FROM THE FOREWORD

Here is a whole book of Play I have written for you. I know you will like it. What fun you will have being the traveling showman; and building a theater to give a merry puppet play; and putting up the mysterious shadow screen. Grown-ups, as well as boys and girls like yourself, will enjoy guessing the charades. And what splendid stories you will tell, especially at night, in the winter, before the open fire.

If you have half so good a time playing this book as I have had writing it for you, I shall be content.

A last word: be sure to invite father and mother to the Pageant of New Year's Resolutions; they will find in it a joy deeper than you can know.

SEVEN TITLES IN THIS SERIES ARE NOW READYMOFFAT, YARD AND COMPANY, UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK

IN this picture Walter Dean Goldbeck has portrayed the result of a high-handed piece of justice on the part of Georgia Connor. A friend of her husband's, a cheap politician, stands hat in hand at her door asking for Jim Connor. She replies: "He doesn't live here any more."

This time Georgia has "made the quarrel permanent." On the narrow landing stand Jim's trunk and satchel, all that was his in the home, waiting for his messenger. Her husband had become a worthless piece of furniture in the house and she has put him out. But in her mind at this time there is no thought of divorce. The teachings of her faith oppose that idea. "My religion is different from all other creeds," she says; "It's part of you." And as to remarriage: "It teaches—Never." It is only when the other man comes into her life that her faith wavers.

The Calling of Dan Matthews

¶ The Winning of Barbara Worth is another star in the author's crown of success and the brightest of them all.

¶ As clean a story as man ever wrote—a story with big incidents, strong people, high ideal and the Spirit of the West.

¶ A story of desert life and the national reclamation work with a sane, wholesome message as broad as humanity itself—The Ministry of Capital.

Philadelphia Dispatch—"The secret of his power is the same God-given secret that inspired Shakespeare and upheld Dickens."

Oregon Journal, Portland—"It is this almost clairvoyant power of reading the human soul that has made Mr. Wright's books among the most remarkable works of the present age."

¶ Mouth to Mouth Advertising has made Harold Bell Wright the most popular living author because his books "make good." By special arrangement 250,000 copies of "The Calling of Dan Matthews," the most widely discussed book in the world, have been published in the Popular Edition. Harold Bell Wright's Ozark "Life Stories," That Printer of Udell's, The Shepherd of the Hills and The Calling of Dan Matthews are all now published in the Popular Edition and are For Sale Wherever Books Are Sold.

¶ The Winning of Barbara Worth for wholesomeness, plot, clear analysis, vitality to our national life, love story and literature combined, is the biggest novel ever issued from any American press and is published in one edition only. A Score of
New Kipling Poems in

A History of England

By RUDYARD KIPLING and C. R. L. FLETCHER

¶ In a score of wonderful poems in this book, Mr. Kipling thrills the reader through and through by a poetic flash of insight into the particular time and character of the men who made it significant, and the result is a succession of revelations of the human heart beating beneath the dry casing of historical fact such as exists in no other book we can cite.

And for a culminating point there is a "Song of the Machines," which sums up our own time with a penetration and insight and hopefulness of clear vision that leave the reader breathless.

THE DIAL
FALL ANNOUNCEMENT NUMBER
SEPTEMBER SIXTEEN

A NOTABLE prospectus of the activities of the American Publishing Trade at the opening of the season 1911-12 will be presented in the annual FALL ANNOUNCEMENT NUMBER of THE DIAL, to appear, as usual, on September 16. In the regular classified "List of Books Announced for Fall Publication" and in the advertising pages of this issue will be found full advance information regarding all the important new books in preparation for the coming season. THE DIAL's announcement lists have for many years been recognized as the most accurate and useful prepared by any periodical, and the issues containing them are relied upon generally by the retail trade, librarians and private buyers of books in making up advance order lists and planning future book purchases. The FALL ANNOUNCEMENT NUMBER is therefore one of the most important and desirable book advertising mediums of the year. The rate for space in this issue is forty dollars a page. As the display is always large, orders and copy should be forwarded at the earliest moment possible.

Pointers for Publishers

PUBLISHERS of forthcoming books to be issued during the Fall season of 1911 are reminded that the Fall Announcement Number of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, to be issued under date of September 30, is in many respects one of the most important issues of the year. Booksellers, generally, find it valuable in making up their holiday orders and for descriptive selections for their own catalogues and circulars. Librarians also use it extensively in making up their purchase lists for the new season. Note then:

FIRST. That the dictionary reference list of new books in that issue will be made up as complete as possible from material procurable between now and September 9. It is therefore very important for all publishers to send to our editorial department at the earliest possible moment lists of their fall announcements, giving as much data as practicable.

SECOND. That the number is especially valuable for advertising, since an advertisement supplements the reference list and keeps the advertiser's descriptive announcements immediately before the buyer during the period he is planning for the new season.

The bookseller, naturally, expects to find the leading books featured in the advertising pages, and his judgment is largely influenced by the publisher's confidence in his leaders as shown by his advertisement. The publisher cannot expect the dealer to stock up on books that are apparently not of sufficient importance to be advertised.

Advertising rates same as for regular issues.

The set, which, by usual subscription methods, would sell for many times the price, are offered to the trade at \$2.75 in cloth and \$3.25 in leather—list prices \$4 and \$5 respectively. The set is $8\frac{3}{4} \times 6\frac{1}{2} \times 3\frac{3}{4}$ inches, weighs less than five pounds and contains 1910 census returns, etc.

As the title suggests, "Stories That End Well," published by the Bobbs-Merrill Company, is pervaded by Octave Thanet's spirit of optimism, and leaves the reader in a pleasant frame of mind. Lloyd Osbourne's forthcoming novel, "A Person of Some Importance," has its opening and closing chapters in those adventurous South Seas where Stevenson and his stepson worked together on "The Ebb-Tide" and "The Wrecker." The scene shifts to a New England village, where an American man and an American girl are involved in astonishing and whimsical adventures.

THE George H. Doran Company will publish on the 9th of September three books of importance. "The Reappearing," by Charles Morice, is a story dealing with Christ's return, which is imagined as taking place in Paris. Because of its arraignment of society the book created no little sensation in France. The other two books are "The Heart of a Woman," by Baroness Orczy, a very thrilling but convincingly written story of modern life; and "Whom God Hath Joined," the latest Arnold Bennett book, in which this author takes up and handles with great insight and fairness the question of the divorce laws of England.

"INTERVENTIONS," a collection of stories by Georgia Wood Pangborn, will be published by Charles Scribner's Sons on September 30. Mrs. Pangborn shows a breadth of sympathy that has already won her a place among the writers who are throwing new light on the daily problems of modern life. She shows also remarkable versatility in her stories of childhood and of adventure. On the same day Scribner's will publish "Son," by Ethel Train, the story of a lovable small boy and the people he meets. Two new books by Ralph D. Paine, whose stories for boys are among the favorites, are "Sandy Sawyer, Sophomore," and "The Wrecking Master."

IMPORTANT books to be published soon by Doubleday, Page & Company are "A History of England," by Rudyard Kipling and C. R. L. Fletcher, illustrated in color and containing twenty-three new Kipling poems; "Joey the Dreamer," by Henry Oyen, a touching tale of a city slum; "The Last Galley," by Arthur Conan Doyle, in the good old style of that sleep-destroying author; "Further Adventures of Nils," translated from the Swedish of Selma Lagerlöf, whose "Wonderful Adventures of Nils" was considered the best thing "since the days of Andersen"; and A. M. Chisholm's "The Boss of Wind," an out-door story of love and adventure. Other books from this house are Alexander Filippini's "International Cook Book," in a new popular edition; "An Hour with the Fairies," from the Crimson Classics, edited by Kate Douglas Wiggin and Nora Archibald Smith; and "The Passing of the Idle Rich," by Frederick Townsend Martin.

Weekly Record of New Publications

The entry is transcribed from title page when the book is sent by publisher for record. Books received, unless of minor importance, are given descriptive annotation. Prices are added except when not supplied by publisher or obtainable only on specific request. The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. After the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

(48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow. For books not received sizes are given in Roman numerals, 4^o, 8^o, etc.

Allen, Ja.

Man, king of mind, body and circumstance. N. Y., Crowell, [11.] (S2) c. 54 p. D. 50 c. n.

By the author of "As a man thinketh," "From passion to peace," etc. The keynote of the author's philosophy is struck in the statement, "Each man is circumscribed by his own thoughts, but he can gradually extend their circle. He can leave the low and reach up to the high. Man cannot abrogate effects, but he can alter causes. He can purify his nature; he can remodel his character."

Carr, Stella.

Stella's roomers; the astonishing story of a rooming-house. N. Y., Brandu's, [11.] (S2) c. 283 p. D. $1.25 n.

The life of a landlady at best would make exciting reading, but the author of this book had more than her share of experiences, and has written of them in an amusing style calculated to interest others of her ilk and guaranteed to hold the surprised attention of any reader. Many original methods of getting rid of unwelcome guests are revealed, and much which has to do with wisdom in running a rooming house is discussed.

Chambers, Rob. W.:

The common law; with il. by C: Dana Gibson. N. Y., Appleton, [II.] (S2) c. 7+536 p. il. D. $1.40 n.

This novel is a story of society and studio life in New York. The story concerns itself with the love affair of Louis Nevill and Valerie West, a girl who, from a cloistered life with an invalid mother, comes to his studio seeking employment as a model. Her beauty wins her an audience, and she is promptly engaged. The association progresses through companionship into friendship and then love. Valerie, knowing well that the traditions of the Nevill family will not permit her to enter it on an established footing, will not ruin his career and social standing by marriage, and offers as an alternative that they make a world for themselves where love can be love without being a burden. Nevill will not listen to such a proposal. Finally Valerie is thrown in contact with members of Nevill's family, who have been from the first opposed to the marriage. Her splendid behavior in several crises leads them to urge her to marry, and the story ends with love triumphant.

Chapman, J. Wilbur, D.D.

Revival sermons. N. Y. and Chic., Revell, [II.] (S2) 12°, $1 n.

Claparède, E.:

Experimental pedagogy and the psychology of the child; tr. from the 4th ed. of "Psychologie de l'enfant et pédagogie expérimentale" by Mary Louch and H: Holman. N. Y., Longmans, 'II. (S2) 5+332 p. (4 p. bibl.) diagrs., D. $1.40 n.

This new edition differs from preceding editions in many alterations: the historical sketch is included for the first time; chapters 2, 3, and 5 have been completed and more or less remodelled; the volume as a whole has been increased by nearly 200 pages, and the authors now quoted number 630 instead of 250. The aim of the book is to introduce the educator to psychological science, particularly in reference to the child. Index. Index of names.

Crawford, S: J.

Kansas in the sixties; with portraits. Chic., McClurg, 'II. (S2) c. 17+441 p. O. $2 n.

Governor Crawford's book of recollections covers his long life spent in Kansas in the service of that State, and his exciting experiences as an officer in the Union Army in the operations west of the Mississippi. The period during which the author was "War-Governor" of Kansas was made famous by the Indian wars, and the events of that time were thrilling in the extreme. His recollections will be read with appreciation by all interested in the history of the development of the West. Appendix. Index.

Crommelin, May.

Madame Mystery; a romance of Toussaint. Bost., Estes, [II.] (S2) 367 p. D. $1.25 n.

Hope Cassilis has a misfortune to bear in the shape of a giddy stepmother, Flora, who comes to her from India with her two children and enters upon a period of invalidism. Nursing her breaks Hope's health and she and her chum, Loveday, start journeying together. In their travels they discover a "Madame Mystery" who is using Hope's name while she goes from place to place. It turns out to be the stepmother on a pilgrimage for another husband. She involves Hope in many mysterious and unpleasant situations, which quite rob the book of its clean English atmosphere and make it an intriguing Spanish type of tale. Hope meets the man she marries, and the stepmother becomes no longer a nuisance through her own marriage.

Crowell, Katharine Roney.

"Best things in America"; the Home Mission Junior text-book for 1911-1912. N. Y. and Chic., Revell, [II.] (S2) 40 c. n.; pap., 25 c. n.

Dever, Dan A., D.D.

The holy Viaticum of life as of death. N. Y., Benziger, 'II. (S2) c. 184 p. front. D. 75 c.

The idea of life as a journey has linked itself in the writer's mind with that significant Christian concept, the Holy Viaticum, and both, thus united, took more definite form as they found in his thought a spiritual grace in the life of St. Stanislaus Kostka, due to the fact that this saint's most typical act was a journey of hundreds and hundreds of miles, fully symbolizing a Christian life-journey. The "Viaticum," once dear to the solitary traveller's heart, means the needful provision for his lonely way.

Dillingham, Eliz. Thompson, and Emerson, Adelle Powers.

"Tell it again" stories. Bost., Ginn, [II.] (S2) c. 9+173 p. il. D. 50 c.

"Tell It Again" Stories is presented as the result of several years of practical work in the kindergarten, where the story is considered, as elsewhere, a most valuable medium of conveying to little children moral and spiritual truths. The book is intended to help the kindergartner, the primary teacher, and the mother to find readily the right story for the children in her care.

Readings in political science. Bost., Ginn, [11.] (S2) c. 41+528 p. O. $2.25.

This volume is a collection of extracts from official documents, contemporary sources, and leading modern authorities, and gives a comprehensive survey of the origin, development, organization, and activities of the State. While it is especially intended to accompany the editor's "Introduction to political science," being arranged in accordance with the plan of that volume, it may also be used to advantage in connection with other texts that cover the general field of political science. Index.

Goss, Warren Lee.

A life of Grant for boys and girls. N. Y., Crowell, [11.] (S2) c. 11+335 p. front. il. por. pls. D. $1.50.

Mr. Goss's book contains the complete history of Grant's life, of his struggles and trials, of his grand achievements. The lessons to be drawn from his life story are set forth in simple style suitable for a young audience, although many of the events in it are described with a vigor of graphic description that will attract older readers.

Gould, C. Newton.

Future of natural gas in Oklahoma. Columbus, O., F. J. Heer Pr., '10, [11.] (S2) 15 p. 8°, gratis.

Granville, W: Anthony.

Elements of the differential and integral calculus, with the editorial coöperation of Percy F. Smith. Rev. ed. Bost., Ginn, [11.] (S2) c. 15+463 p. por. diagrs., O. $2.50.

The revised book will exhibit the latest and best methods that have stood the test of actual classroom use. While retaining the fundamental characteristics of the original edition, the new edition will be found thoroughly modern and more teachable than ever before. Besides the changes which may be attributed chiefly to the recent developments in the study of the calculus, special notice may be taken in the Revised Calculus of the abridgment of introductory material; the introduction of biographical sketches of the leading men connected with the history of the calculus; and the addition of a large number of examples without answers, miscellaneous examples; and simple, practical problems, based on knowledge that all students of the calculus should have at their command.

Griffis, W: Elliot.

The unmannerly tiger and other Korean tales. N. Y., Crowell, [11.] (S2) c. 11+155 p. il. in col. D. $1.

The author of "Firefly's lovers," "Japanese nation in evolution," etc., writes a book for young people of a newly discovered land, especially in so far as its large fairy population is concerned. How many of us ever heard before of Tokgabi, the house brownie, and his wonderful pranks? Or of the impolite tiger, who gives his name to the book, and his dealings with the holy man? The tales of these creatures are curious enough, but even more interesting and amusing are the love affairs of the earthworm, Mr. Wum, and his bride, Miss Thousand Legs, and of the frog who married the most beautiful girl in Korea.

Hamby, W: H.

Tom Henry of Wahoo County; a story of the Ozarks. Phil., Westminster Press, '11. (S2) c. 189 p. il. D. 60 c. n.

Tom Henry is a "hill boy" of the Ozark Mountains, politely known as Thomas Henderson Black. With the help of a book on elocution and a large amount of determination, Tom Henry decides to be an orator and run for state office. The Ozark boys have but to determine thing and aim for it as a goal when they surely win. With his final great speech and his aim surely within his grasp he sends this telegram to Allie Trosper, "Victory for the right. Will be home Friday to stay over Sunday. Hope to see you," and he wonders if she knows what he is going to say.

Hamilton, Edith Henrietta Fowler, [Mrs. Rob. Hamilton.]

The professor's children; with 24 il. by Ethel Kate Burgess. N. Y., Longmans, '11. (S2) 254 p. D. $1 n.

Peggy, Roger, Oliver and the baby change a shabby London nursery into a wonderful world of their own. Peggy is eight and the baby is two, but they imagine plays with the proper character for the age and capacities of each small actor. Their father is a professor, and even he is puzzled sometimes to deal with children who logically argue "if it wasn't for lessons and bed-time and nurse and being washed, and horrid things like that, we might have time to get on with our playing properly."

The young pretenders; with 12 il. by Philip Burne-Jones. N. Y., Longmans, '11. (S2) 231 p. $1 n.

A charming book about children who live in a world "peopled by a host of pretending folk, all the animals they ever came across, and most of the servants with their relatives and acquaintances inclusive. Such an interesting world it was, bounded by the brook and the lanes, and full of excitement in the first bird's nest, and the young rabbits, to say nothing of Giles the gardener's thrilling stories!"

Hanshen, T. W.

The world's finger. New ed. N. Y., J. S. Ogilvie Pub., [11.] (S2) 283 p. il. 12°, 75 c.

Harte, F. Bret.

Tennessee's partner. San Francisco, Elder, [11.] (S2) 38 p. front. 24°, (Western classics.) in case of Jap. fibre stock, or with jacket of Ancona handmade, in slide box, $1.75 n.; set of 4 v. in box of Jap. fibre stock, $6 n.

Head, Barclay Vincent, and others.

Historia numorum; a manual of Greek numismatics. New and enl. ed. N. Y., Oxford Univ., '11. (S2) 31+966 p. (10 p. bibl.) il. tabs., O. $12.75.

The bibliography will give some idea of the quantity of new material which has been referred to in preparing the present volume, with its addition of 160 pages. Working students and numismatists will not fail to appreciate the value of many inconspicuous additions, not only of new coins but of references to illustrated works, while a certain amount which was superfluous has been sacrificed. One of the distinctive features of the work is an attempt to set forth clearly the chronological sequence in order to build up in outline the history of the ancient world as it existed from the seventh century to the third century A.D. Indexes.

Hopkins, W. J.:

The Indian book. Bost., Houghton Mifflin, ['11.] (S2) c. 8+239 p. il. D. $1.25 n.

The illustrations are reproduced from the famous drawings and paintings by George Catlin, used to illustrate his work upon the American Indian. The text is of historical value to the child, as giving the Indian history, religion, legend, etc., told entertainingly by the author of "Old harbor" and "The clammer."

Jamison, Alpha Pierce.

Isometric drawing. N. Y., McGraw-Hill, ['11.] (S2) 69 p. il. 12°, $1 n.

Jefferson, C. E.:

Why we may believe in life after death; Raymond F. West Memorial lectures on immortality. Bost., Houghton Mifflin, ['11.] (S2) c. 6+174 p. D. $1 n.

"As long as men keep on dying," writes the author in explaining the purpose of his book, "the heart will continue to ask the same old questions." Those to whom these questionings are important will find here a book unusually satisfactory. It is longer than the books in the Ingersoll series, and will undoubtedly have a wider circulation than many of them have had. As a writer and a preacher Dr. Jefferson is widely known.

Jeffrey, F. S., Lord.

Jeffrey's literary criticism; ed., with introd., by D. Nichol Smith. N. Y., Oxford Univ., '10, ['11.] (S2) 24+216 p. front. por. S. 90 c.

Kaler, Ja. Otis, ["Ja. Otis," pseud.]

The aeroplane at Silver Fox Farm; il. by Copeland. N. Y., Crowell, ['11.] (S2) c. 360 p. il. pls. O. $1.50.

Three boys and two men betake themselves to an island just large enough to hold them all comfortably and start in to build an aeroplane. Two of the boys are Paul Simpson and Ned Bartlett, who appeared in Mr. Otis's last book, "The wireless station at Silver Fox Farm." The project is carried through, although setbacks occur because John Ed Bingham, who, for the sake of revenge, hangs about until Mr. Sawtelle and Paul soar away on a trial spin, when he puts a bullet through their steering-gear and nearly kills them both. Their own escape, and after that John Ed's, are only two of the wonders in this eventful tale.

Boy scouts in the Maine woods; il. by Copeland. N. Y., Crowell, ['11.] (S2) c. 283 p. pls. O. $1.25.

A party of boys go down to Mr. Dobson's tract of timber land in the heart of the Penobscot country to guard it against fire. The lumber king gives the scouts $125 for their summer's work in the woods, supplying them with food and a man to cook it, and in return the young fire-rangers regularly patrol the bounds of their employer's tract. A glorious time they have in carrying out their contract. They are furnished plenty of excitement, and end their duties by pitching in and building a high signal tower, and as a special reward receive from the lumber operator a set of brand-new uniforms complete. By the author of "The Wireless Station at Silver Fox Farm," etc.

Kimball, H. Dox, D.D.

Records of a journey, from sunrise to evening glow; an autobiography. Cin., Jennings & G., ['11.] (S2) c. 280 p. por. D. $1 n.

The subject of this autobiography was born in Raymerton, N. Y., 1841. In 1859 he was licensed as an exhorter at the time of his "conversion," when he entered as a student the New York Conference Seminary. Earning his way through schools, preaching here and there, he gradually arrived at his goal as a Methodist minister of the gospel. He is now dean of Kimball College of Theology and author of "Beyond the horizon."

Knapp, Adeline.

The iron pirate. Phil., Westminster Press, ['11.] (S2) c. 189 p. il. D. 60 c. n.

These chapters were first published in Forward, a Presbyterian publication. A story of Doris, who keeps bees in California and makes money by selling the honey. Rags is a dog who was lost and belonged to a boy named Larry. He and his dog and Doris become great friends and it is Larry who discovers the treachery of the "Iron Pirate," a man whose land adjoins, which brings prosperity to Mr. Chandler, Doris' father.

MacGrath, Harold.

The carpet from Bagdad; with il. by Andre Castaigne. Indianapolis, Bobbs-Merrill, ['11.] (S2) c. 390 p. il. in col. D. $1.25 n.

One may perhaps best describe this as an adventure-romance. The scene opens in Cairo, continues in the desert, and ends in New York. The plot, starting with the theft of a rare and holy rug, stolen by an American adventurer from its Moslem owner and sold to an American collector, is the author's most salient stroke of originality. The reader follows eagerly the fortunes of the little group of Americans who meet dangers amid the strange surroundings of the Near East, and who come home only to be involved in more dangerous and remarkable complications. All is told in that sparkling rapid-fire style which makes a romance most popular.

McKinley, Rev. W:

A story of Minnesota Methodism. Cin., Jennings & G., [II.] (S2) c. 359 p. D. $1 n. Bishop McIntyre in his introduction says: "This book is the witnessing of one who knows, the picturesque affirmation of one who was there, who saw the panorama of the days gone by in the northwest, had a full share in its unfolding, and now writes chronicles of the days of old. The author lets us see the souls of warriors who won this empire for God and Methodism, the unconquerable spirit which animated their ranks, and the fundamental unity of their work and ours."

Mathewson, Anna.

The song of the evening stars; with il. by Enrico Caruso. Bost., Badger, [II.] (S2) c. 108 p. D. $1 n.

A volume of verse upon the subject of grand opera. It deals humorously with the well-known singers, conductors and managers, with the audiences and the operas themselves.

Mertins, Gustave F:

A watcher of the skies. N. Y., Crowell, [II.] (S2) c. 376 p. col. front. D. $1.25 n.

As a result of an accident and a blow on the head received in it, Arthur Henley loses his money, the charming girl who has just become his wife, and his memory at one stroke. Later the hero finds himself on an estate among the New Jersey hills, and comes under the wizard-like hypnotic power of Dr. Sebastian O'Brien, the "watcher of the skies," where things of a marvelous nature occur. The very genuine love affairs of four young people—an American girl of beauty and strong character, a Bulgarian girl of high birth and of a rich Eastern type, a young Mexican who is a Yale graduate, and the hero—are woven into the plot.

Miller, G. A.

Some outdoor prayers. N. Y., Crowell, [II.] (S2) c. 30 p. S. bds., 35 c. n.

This booklet will have a special appeal for at least two classes of readers—those who enjoy unusual effects in their reading matter and those who seek to get away from set forms in their worship.

Miller, Ja. Russell, D.D.

Learning to love. N. Y., Crowell, [II.] (S2) c. 10. 37 p. il. in col. D. 50 c. n.

"Learning to love is a long lesson," says the author. The key to the lesson is found in unselfishness, and that is the point emphasized throughout the book. Examples are cited from legends, from the Scriptures, and from real life to show that unselfish love is the great divine thing in the world.

Greek lands and the Greek people; an inaugural lecture delivered before the University of Oxford, November 11, 1910. N. Y., Oxford Univ., '10, [II.] (S2) 32 p. O. pap., 50 c.

Author is Wykeham professor of ancient history. This book deals with the answers to these questions: "In what sense are there Greek lands, and in what relation of cause or effect do Greek lands stand to the Greek people? Or, to put it the other way round: Geographically considered, who were the Greeks? How did this unique flower of humanity spring into bloom just when it did?"

On the iron at Big Cloud. N. Y., Crowell, [II.] (S2) c. 343 p. D. $1.25 n.

A book about railroad life on the Rocky Mountain division of a big transcontinental line, where exciting and unusual events happen and common men may in an instant's time turn into heroes. Before the author made writing his profession, he spent four years in the engineering department of the road when it "dug, blasted, burrowed, and treasted its right of way through the mountains," and thus got his inspiration at first hand.

Painter, Franklin Verzelius Newton, D.D.

Introduction to Bible study: the Old Testament. Bost., Sibley & Co., [II.] (S2) c. 6+265 p. pls. D. $1.

The purpose of this book is to set forth the literary, historical and ethical value of the Bible. It aims to present the principal facts every intelligent person ought to know. After an introductory chapter showing the relation of the Bible to modern life, the historic conditions in which the Old Testament originated are considered, the several books are then classified and studied in detail, their character, purpose and analysis of contents being given.

Pier, Arth. Stanwood.

The jester of St. Timothy's; with illustrations. Bost., Houghton Mifflin, '11. (S2) c. 223 p. D. $1 n.

Mr. Pier introduces a new element into his story—the perplexities and trials of a new master, just out of college. The Jester is a Sixth Form boy, bright and audacious, who cannot deny himself the fun of harrying the sensitive and inexperienced young master. Athletics play a prominent part in the story, of course, and so does the attractive and wholesome social life that the author always depicts in his boarding-school stories.

Platt, W: and Mrs. W:

Stories of the Scottish border; with 16 full-page il. by M. Meredith Williams. N. Y., Crowell, [11.] (S2) 256 p. O. $1.50.

The present volume is made up of fifty or more chapters based on the old borderland ballads, devoted to the most renowned of battles, heroic deeds in love and war, and notable happenings recounted of the border, prefaced by a history and description of the region itself. Examples of the stories retold here in entertaining prose form are "The Young Tamlane," "The Gay Goss-hawk," "Fair Helen of Kirkconnell," "The Twa Corbies," and "The Battle of Otterbourne."

Pratt, E: Ewing.

Industrial causes of congestion of population in New York City. N. Y., Longmans, '11. (S2) c. (11 p. bbl.) 259 p. O. (Studies in history, economics and public law.) pap., $2 n.

This study was originally undertaken for the exhibit of Congestion of Population, which was held in the spring of 1908. While the author was a fellow in the Bureau of Social Research in the New York School of Philanthropy the work was considerably enlarged. The statistical matter is the most valuable portion of the book. The number of employers interviewed has not been large, but representative, and while methods of investigation and manner of presentation may have certain limitations, the work on the whole is a valuable contribution towards the solution of a vital problem. Appendix.

Reid, Jane Brewster.

Carey of St. Ursula's. N. Y., Baker & T., '11. (S2) c. 267 p. il. D. $1.25 n.

"The Owls of St. Ursula's" was the first book to make known the characters of this new volume. While not strictly a sequel, "Carey of St. Ursula's" brings back the same group of actors. The heroine, a shrinking, self-conscious girl, aware of her own lack of aplomb, presents a problem of character which gradually rights itself, and in the succession of crises in the book Carey shows herself a stronger character than she believed herself to be. There is variety of scene, abundance of action, and a fine and inspiring view of school-girl life.

Rolleston, T. W.

The high deeds of Finn, and other bardic romances of ancient Ireland; with an introd. by Stopford A. Brooke, and with 16 il. [in col.] by Stephen Reid. N. Y., Crowell, [11.] (S2) 55+214 p. O. $1.50 n.

The author has endeavored to treat the myth and folklore of Ireland as Tennyson treated the stories of the "Morte d'Arthur." These stories are mainly devoted to the period of Finn, the son of Cumhal, who was the captain of a military order devoted to the service of the High King of Ireland during the third century A.D. The book is intended largely for the young.

Rossetti, Dante Gabriel.

The complete poetical works; with a biographical sketch by W: M. Rossetti. N. Y., Crowell, [11.] (S2) 27+349 p. por. D. 1.25, boxed.

The author of the biographical preface was brother to the poet, especially well qualified to speak of his characteristics.

Sabin, Edn. Legrand.

The circle K; or, fighting for the flock. N. Y., Crowell, [11.] (S2) c. 305 p. il. pls. O. $1.50.

Author of "Bar B Boys," "Range and Trail," etc. This year the Bar B's have "gone into sheep." The Circle K's, as the Bar B's are now called, soon master the ins and outs of sheep herding, and have time to give to such things as the pursuit and capture of some bad men, the shooting of coyotes and other pests, and the defense of the sheep by force against the cattlemen who have posted "dead line" notices.

Shepherd, W: Rob.

Historical atlas. N. Y., Holt, '11. (S2) 11+216+94 p. Q. (American historical ser.; ed. by C. H. Haskins.) $2.50.

Author is professor of history in Columbia University. Begins with a map of Mycenean Greece and the Orient about 1450 B.C. and ends with one of the Panama Canal.

Smith, D: Eug., and Karpinski, L: C:

The Hindu-Arabic numerals. Bost., Ginn, '11. (S2) c. 6+160 p. facsimis., D. $1.25.

Although it has long been known that the numerals ordinarily employed in business, and commonly attributed to the Arabs, are not of Arabic origin, and although numerous monographs have been written concerning their derivation, no single work has yet appeared in which the complete story of their rise and development has been told. In the preparation of this treatise the authors have examined every important book and monograph that has appeared upon the subject, consulting libraries, examining manuscripts, and sifting the evidence with greatest care. The result is a scholarly discussion of the entire question of the origin of the numerals. Authors are professor of mathematics, Teachers College, Columbia University, and instructor in mathematics, University of Mich., Ann Arbor. Index.

Sparhawk, Frances Campbell.

Dorothy Brooke's experiments; il. by Fk. T. Merrill. N. Y., Crowell, [11.] (S2) c. 401 p. O. $1.50.

The latest of the Dorothy Brooke books gives an account of her life at the famous girls' school, Hoxton Hall; of her experiments along literary lines, of her friendship with Grace Longley and her brother Ned, and how it was nearly destroyed by the causeless jealousy of Mabel White.

Stacpoole, H: De Vere.

The cruise of the "Kingfisher"; a tale of deep-sea adventures; il. by W: Rainey. N. Y., Duffield, '11. (S2) 8+308 p. D. $1.50 n.

The author of "The Blue Lagoon," "The Crimson Azaleas," etc., tells of the trip taken by two English boys, Teddy O'Brien and Dick Marley, in the ship "Kingfisher," which was sent to mend the Venezuela cable. A series of fatalities among the crew makes the boys suspicious of foul play, which are only too soon justified. The crew mutiny and the two boys barely escape with their lives. How they finally overcome the mutineers and return home with over £20,000 salvage money brings this exciting sea tale to its close.

With the author's estimate of the genius of each poet selections are given especially representative of such phases of his talent as he wishes illustrated. Other books by the same author are "Three essays," "Sir Walter Raleigh," etc.

Steele, Jack.

The house of iron men; frontispiece in color by Clara M. Burd. N. Y., D. Fitzgerald, ['11.] (S2) c. 344 p. D. $1.20 n.

Julian Vail's blind defense of Barbara Lee, who in an unconscious state is sent in a large cardboard box to him as a "A gift of the gods," leads him into various dangerous adventures and one almost gives up hope of solving the network of mysteries which are tangled around Barbara's identity. The House of Iron Men, with its hidden rooms and secret stairway, is an ideal background for gruesome deeds, and as the writer has made the most of his opportunity, we are given our share of "creeps" in following the doings of Lawbit Scratch and Dinga Single, the East Indian zealot.

Thackeray, W: Makepeace.

The English humorists of the eighteenth century; ed. by Stark Young. Bost., Ginn, ['11.] (S2) c. 25+285 p. S. (Standard English classics.) 35 c.

As a starting point for a more or less extensive reading of eighteenth-century literature there is no better book than Thackeray's "English humorists." Its appearance on the latest list of College-entrance requirements in English makes a new edition of this book, especially prepared for use in preparatory schools or colleges, most opportune. Editor is adjunct professor of General Literature, University of Texas. Notes.

Thoreau, H: D:

A week on the Concord and Merrimack Rivers; il. by Clifton Johnson. N. Y., Crowell, ['11.] (S2) c. 22+492 p. O. $2 n., boxed.

This first book of Thoreau's takes its place in the edition of his works edited by Clifton Johnson, with charming illustrations of scenes along the route of the famous inland voyage.

The dusk of the gods (Götterammerung); a dramatic poem, freely tr. in poetic narrative form by Oliver Huckel. N. Y., Crowell, ['11.] (S2) c. 100 p. pls. D. 75 c. n. This work, called in English "The Dusk of the Gods," is the final poem in the great Nibelungen Ring cycle. This closing drama reveals the relation of the parts and the dramatic unity of the whole majestic work, which leaves an impression of something primitive, colossal, partaking of the power and grandeur of the earlier ages of the world.

Mother Carey's chickens. Bost., Houghton Mifflin, '11. (S2) c. 356 p. il. D. $1.25 n.

In this book the author has created the ideal American mother, just as in "Rebecca" she created "the nicest child in American literature." It is the story of a critical period in the life of a naval officer's family, in which the love and tact and example of Mother Carey leads her four children to adapt themselves to the conditions of their new country home after the loss of their father. Readers of all ages and all tastes will love Mother Carey and sympathize in the trials and rejoice in the victories of her interesting brood.

Wilmot-Buxton, Ethel M.

The story of the Crusades; with 16 ill. by M. Meredith Williams. N. Y., Crowell, 'II.] (S2) 286 p. O. $1.50.

The author of "Stories of Early England," "Stories of Norse Heroes," etc., gives here a thorough-going, well-written narrative of the Crusades. Historical accuracy joined to an entertaining style gives this book for young people a peculiar value. The two hundred years which cover the actual period of the Holy War are crammed with an interest that never grows dim. The history of the Prophet Mohammed and the spread of Islam is given and the rise of chivalry in Europe is described, followed by complete accounts of the various expeditions to rescue Jerusalem from the infidel's grasp, including the Children's Crusade.

Workman, Rev. Herb. Brook.

Christian thought to the Reformation. N. Y., Scribner, 'II. (S2) 10+256 p. (8 p. bibl.) D. (International theological lib.) 75 c. n.

Author is principal of Westminster Training College, and has written "Persecution in the early church," "Dawn of the Reformation," "Letters of John Hus," etc. In this volume the main movements of Christian thought from the close of the Apostolic Age to the dawn of the Reformation are the things considered. The writer's object has been to draw attention to the changes and developments due to the action and reaction upon theology, not only of the current philosophy and science, but also to some extent of the general environment, the influence of which is sometimes unduly neglected. Index.

Yen, Hawkling L.

A survey of constitutional development in China. N. Y., Longmans, 'II. (S2) c. 250 p. (9 p. bibl.) O. (Studies in history, economics and public law.) pap. $1 n.

The constitutional changes which have taken place in the development of the Chinese state is what the author desires to present rather than to give a sketch of Chinese history. The experiences of four thousand years of China's political evolution is open to the ambitious student, and the facts of this book are new only in the system in which they are marshalled.

Young, Gerald.

The witch's kitchen; or, the India rubber doctor; with il. by Willy Pogany. N. Y., Crowell, 'II. (S2) 223 p. O. $2 n.

Two little English girls, Dulcie and Doris, ride away on a broomstock in company with an old witch. She takes them to her home and makes them take care of her baby. There they meet many strange creatures. Their brother Frank, hearing from one Jackdaws what has become of the two little girls, sets out to rescue them and with the help of the India rubber doctor succeeds in doing so.

The Publishers' Weekly

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT

September 2, 1911

The editor is not responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

Publishers should send books promptly for weekly record and descriptive annotation, if possible in advance of publication. The Record of the Publishers' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

BOOK VS. PERIODICAL POSTAGE.

THE Hughes commission which for three weeks has been investigating the costs of handling second class mail, has, except for a possible short supplementary session in Washington in September, completed its hearings. The whole vexing question of second class mail rates was gone into thoroughly; the cases of both the Department and the periodical publishers were ably presented; and, however difficult it may be to forecast the recommendations of the commission, certainly no little light has been thrown upon the problem.

The discrepancy between the present postal rate of a cent a pound and the Department's estimate of cost, nine cents a pound, was so great as to throw upon the periodical publishers from the beginning a tremendous handicap. It is one thing to prove that a certain estimate is simply too high; it is so great a variance as to be really quite another thing to prove a certain estimate eight times too high.

In the presentation of the more general aspects of their case—the conflicts of departmental interpretation under which the periodicals labor; the stimulation of first class mail by periodical advertising; the educational and cultural influence of certain types of magazines—the publishers made, on the whole, their stronger showing. Indeed they might well have laid more emphasis upon the sociologic aspects of the problem rather than to have attempted so categorically to combat the Department's data of cost.

The fact is that, however emphatically the periodical publishers may now deny that, in seeking for a continuance of the cent a pound rate, they are asking anything in the nature of a special privilege or subsidy, such was the intent of the law of 1879. That the second class rate is a privilege is implied in the wording of the existing regulations. The very fact that the second class rate has been so carefully hedged about with restrictive interpretations argues that it is and always has been a special privilege—to be jealously guarded from general use.

Looking at the question in its broader aspects there would seem to have been three chief reasons advanced at the hearings for granting a cent a pound rate to periodical publications as against other classes of mail matter, even though, as is not yet determined, that rate involve a loss.

The first, originally the only reason, is implied in the very wording of the statute of 1879—second class matter, it says, "must be originated and published for the dissemination of information of a public character, or devoted to literature, the sciences, arts or some special industry." Having, in other words, "by the dissemination of information," rendered a quasi-public service, such publications become in a measure justly susceptible to favorable consideration from the State. That many existing periodicals may grossly violate the spirit and plain intent of the statute does not controvert the general reasonableness of such governmental grant. The "county free" privilege, for example, is absolutely indefensible on any other ground.

Secondly, periodicals, through a preliminary sorting and partial routing by the publishers, save a large proportion of post office expense in the office-of-origin; through their great comparative weight insure cheaper transportation contract rates on other classes of mail on many contract routes; and through the slightly preferential treatment accorded other classes tend to lower delivery costs. In other words, if the cost of second class service be less, so should the rate be.

The third contention is that second class matter, through the immense amount of advertising carried, directly stimulates a very large amount of income-producing first class mail. It is argued that the Post Office Department, as a business organization, can well afford to carry second class matter at a loss, if necessary, to keep it in existence as a creator of extremely profitable first-class business.

Of course, to render this latter argument conclusive, as Mr. Hitchcock partially pointed out, two further positions must be maintained: first, that the loss, if any, on second class mail is offset by the profit on first class mail induced by second class mail advertising (probably true, but very difficult to prove); and second, that this advertising-induced first class mail will be greatly reduced, or indeed eliminated, if second class mail is either forced to pay a higher mail rate or obliged to resort, as prophesied by the periodical publishers, to express carriage.

Generally speaking, increases in the second class rate would probably be thrown back, by the periodical publisher, first on the advertiser, secondly on the subscriber. Both of these courses would tend to reduce materially advertising-induced first class mail, by decreasing the amount of advertising carried and by diminishing circulation.

Granted then that these three contentions are true, the question, from the book publishers' and booksellers' standpoint, becomes one of seeing if they do not prove too much! In other words, if these are the reasons for giving periodicals a postage rate at or below cost, why should the same rate not be extended, under identical conditions, to books?

If the flaring comic supplement of the Sunday paper, the variety sheet and the all-fiction magazine of questionable flavor may all figure under the law as "devoted to literature, the sciences and arts," is it going too far to assert that the Riverside Literature Series, Everyman's Library, and in fact the preponderating mass of book publications may be credited with at least as high an aim and with serving at least as useful a purpose in the public economy? If there exist a postal subsidy—a point not yet decided—are they not at least as deserving of it?

Probably no book publisher would object, either, to making a preliminary sorting and routing of his publications for mail transportation if, by such comparatively slight labor, he could gain a postal parity with periodical publications. Nor would he insist on the slight preferential treatment accorded first class mail, if for that alone he were to remain so heavily surtaxed as at present. It is true, of course, that book shipments are at present inconsiderable compared with periodical shipments and are extremely irregular.

There remains but the advertising argument. It is true that book publishers have preferred so far to follow the ancient custom of giving the purchaser only text reading matter in his bound book. Perhaps, if necessary, under the governmental incentive of a cent-a-pound rate, the book publishers might be induced to override their ancient custom and double the bulk of their printed matter in accordance with the prevailing periodical mode! Which suggestion, sarcastic as it may be, may bear indirectly a measure of truth.

There is little doubt that the extreme disparity in postal rates for books and periodicals respectively has been, as was pointed out two weeks ago, of no little significance in the comparative growth in the last generation, of book and periodical publications. Regardless of the cost of second class mail transportation, may not the Hughes commission well ask itself why this disparity should continue?

IN the calculations of the Post Office Department as to cost of second class matter, all expenditures of the Department have been, naturally, assigned pro rata, with allowance for variations of distribution in the several elements of cost. But there is also another side of the question, from which an opposite result may be obtained. It was brought out early in the inquiry that if there were no second class matter, the cost per pound for railroad transportation of the remaining classes would be raised from near the minimum to nearer the maximum price, which depends directly upon weight transported, though the Second Assistant Postmaster-General made the seemingly fair reply that 90 per cent. of all matter is carried on the great trunk lines, where the service would be at minimum rates, even in the absence of second class matter. But the crux of this question is in the fixed charges of the Department, which must be met even if only first class mail were carried. The principal items here are the rural free delivery service, $34,000,000, and the compensation of third and fourth class postmasters, $21,000,000, together approximating the loss claimed on second class matter. Of these amounts 41 per cent. of rural free delivery service, or $14,000,000, and 26 per cent. of post office service had been charged in the Department's estimates to second class matter. In other words, if second class matter were dropped altogether and the rural free delivery service and third and fourth class post offices continued, the Post Office Department would be no better off, while there would be a serious diminution of revenue from first class matter to the extent that the advertisements in the periodicals stimulated such business. This argument may scarcely be pressed to the full extent here indicated, but it suggests that the Department is not wholly right in its pro rata argument.

THE Fall Announcement number of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, issued under date of September 30, is one of the most important issues of the year. Its value to the bookseller is in direct ratio to its completeness. We would urge that all publishers delinquent in sending us lists of their fall publications should get them to us this week without fail, as the list portion of the number goes to press about September 9. Incidentally advertisers are urged to forward copy and return proofs with as little delay as possible, the heavy advertising carried in this number necessitating a certain amount of co-operation in order that good service may be given to all advertisers.

THE SECOND CLASS MAIL HEARING.

ON Thursday afternoon of last week Mr. Noble, attorney for the publishers, continued the cross-examination of Mr. Stewart and Mr. McBride, of the Department, regarding the equipment used for carrying second class mail. Justice Hughes interrupted many times to propose inquiries that brought out in a single answer the whole intent of the examination.

"Are more sacks used in the process of transportation of second class mail than are used at the office where the mail originates?" asked Mr. Noble.

Mr. McBride said there were.

"How do you reconcile the two statements occurring in different places, one to the effect that the average amount of second class mail contained in one sack is 37.5 pounds and another that the average weight is 8 pounds?" asked Mr. Noble.

"That may be due to the fact that so much mail is redistributed on its way. The 37.5 refers to the weight at the office of origin and the 8 pounds to the average weight of the sacks when they arrive at their destination."

"Doesn't it strike you as extraordinary that there should be such a discrepancy?" asked Justice Hughes.

Mr. McBride did not think so.

"In arriving at the number of pound miles which second class matter is carried have you not used the 366 days of the year as a multiple, although on some routes the mail is carried only six days a week?" asked Mr. Noble.

"That is true," replied Mr. McBride. "But we have figured it out on a basis of seven days a week, and the result is the same."

Mr. Noble insisted that it was not, however.

A SUFFRAGETTE DELEGATION.

In the middle of the afternoon Miss Mary Ware Dennett, representing the National Woman's Suffrage Association, and Miss Leonora Reilly, of the Women's Trade Union, came in and requested a hearing, which was granted. Miss Dennett objected to any increase in postal rates.

"It seems to me," she said, "that it is the very antithesis of progress to increase the burdens of the people. Instead of making things harder for them we should make them easier."

Mr. Noble resumed his cross-examination of Mr. McBride. The general tendency of the Department's corrected figures seemed to be to strengthen the claim for the increase in rates.

MR. COWLES SUBMITS PARCELS POST BRIEF.

James L. Cowles, secretary of the Postal Progress League, presented a brief against any increase in the rate on second class postal parcels.

"The hearings," Mr. Cowles said, "seem to have brought out the fact that the consequent check on the dissemination of advertising intelligence would deprive the public of valuable opportunities for the sale of their produce and the disposal of their wares, and would thus do immeasurable harm. The first-class revenues accruing from advertisements in the second-class service more than counterbalance any possible difference in its cost and its direct revenues."

"According to the Interstate Commerce Commission, our private express companies are carrying newspapers from New York to Chicago, more than a thousand miles, station to station, at 50 cents a hundred pounds, and since the railways receive only half the amount paid to the express companies, the railway service is done in this case at only 25 cents a hundred pounds. I note, also, that under the English Post-American Express agreement, eleven-pound parcels of English merchandise are now carried by the American Express Company from New York to San Francisco for 24 cents, or a trifle more than 2 cents a pound. This includes delivery, and Mr. Britt tells us that the post office can perform the same service cheaper than any private corporation."

"The post office is our mutual express company. Its principles are rates regardless of distance, regardless of the character or volume of matter transported, rates determined by the representatives of the rate-payers in Congress assembled, and on the basis of the cost of the service rendered. In so far as these principles are recognized and acted upon by Congress, our whole country is on a plane of the most perfect commercial equality. But by its enormous tax on the postal transport of general merchandise Congress deprives us almost altogether of the use of the post office in local merchandise traffic, and in through traffic confines its service to parcels of less than six ounces."

$600,000 POSTAGE FROM ONE BUSINESS HOUSE.

The first witness for the publishers Friday was William Rosenbaum, president of the National Suit and Cloak Company.

"My house pays to the Government $600,000 annually in postage," said Mr. Rosenbaum.

"How much did you say?" asked Justice Hughes, leaning over the bench in surprise.

Mr. Rosenbaum repeated his figures, and added that they paid $400,000 per annum to making the profit $126,430.86. He then gave the figures for the six months ended June 30, 1911. The income from all sources during that period, he said, was $700,618.67 and the expenses were $693,011.53. This gave a profit of $7607.14. It was explained that the great decrease in profits for this period was due to the loss incurred from Adventure, the new magazine which is being published by the Ridgway Company. Everybody's for the period of six months ended June 30, 1910, realized from all sources $611,884.71, and its expenses at the same time were $554,342.72. This made the profits amount to $54,541.99.

TABLE SUBMITTED BY THE GOVERNMENT LAST WEEK (WEDNESDAY) TO SHOW THE ADVERTISING STATISTICS, ETC., OF TWENTY REPRESENTATIVE MAGAZINES.

the express companies. He also added that if there were a parcels post practically all this business would go to the Government. Mr. Rosenbaum added that his company sent out 1,034,000 packages last year at the fourth class rate, and that the express companies carried 60,000 packages for them. Mr. Britt, the Third Assistant Postmaster-General, wanted to know whether Mr. Rosenbaum thought that an increase in the rate for second class mail would hurt his business. The witness replied that he was sure that the magazines in which he advertised would shift the burden to their advertisers.

THE STIMULATION OF FIRST CLASS MAIL BY ADVERTISING.

Edmund Carrington, of the Butterick Publishing Company, Mr. Beck, of the Review of Reviews, and H. W. Paine, of McClure's, testified that as advertising experts they believed that second class mail matter in the form of magazine advertising stimulated first class mail to an enormous extent.

Peter H. Wiegand, of the Ridgway Publishing Company, told the commission about the profits and losses of magazines, with reference particularly to two published by his company, Adventure and Everybody's. Mr. Wiegand said that the total income of the Ridgway Company for 1910 was $1,347,449.89. The expenses were $1,221,019.03,

For the six months ended June 30, 1911, the receipts from Adventure were $68,180.93 and the expenses $89,177.48. The result was a loss of $20,996.55.

Commissioner Harry Wheeler, of Chicago, wanted to know whether there was at this period any unusual expense from bonds or from promoting the company. Mr. Wiegand said that there was not, and he added that the company was bonded at $500,000, just half the capitalization. The president of the Ridgway Company, according to Mr. Wiegand, received $10,000 a year, and the treasurer, who is the only other officer, gets $3900.

"Isn't it true that often the cost of printing and the paper in a magazine amount to more than the subscription price, and that therefore an increase in circulation would mean an actual loss?" asked Mr. Sheehan.

Mr. Wiegand said that it would.

MR. HITCHCOCK ADMITS THE MAGAZINES STIMULATE FIRST CLASS MAIL

"The attorneys for the magazines," said Postmaster-General Hitchcock in summing up the Government's case, "have presented this matter of advertising in magazines in such a way as to leave the impression that there is a controversy over it. There is none. The Department knows that the advertising matter in magazines produces first class mail and that the post office is benefited in that way. The important question is, What effect will an increase of one cent a pound have on the advertising? Will it be the means of stopping it?"

"We feel that advertising would not be diminished by such an increase, and if such is the case all this information which we have heard to-day, interesting as it may be, is not to the point, because the conditions described will continue in the future as they have in the past.

"We believe that advertising under the proposed rate will continue in the same volume that it has in the past. The argument has been made that advertising matter creates first class mail matter and that this benefits the Government. Therefore, they say, second class mail matter should not be penalized. This seems to carry the assumption that advertising would stop. I have no doubt that the rates would be increased, but so they have at many times in the past. Here are some figures about a number of magazines from 1898 to 1910 showing the increases they have made in their advertising rates:

"Everybody's in 1899 charged $1 a line and in 1910 they charged $2.50 a line. In 1899 their rate per page was $150 and last year it was $500. More remarkable still is the case of the Saturday Evening Post, which in 1899 charged 25 cents a line. It increased its rate almost annually, until last year it was $6 a line. A page in the Saturday Evening Post in 1899 cost $800. The rate for an inside page in 1910 was $3600; for the second cover, $4000; the middle page, double and colored, $7200; the third cover, $4000, and the back cover, $4500.

NO GENERAL INCREASE IN RATES SOUGHT.

"I wish to make just one more point," continued Mr. Hitchcock. "Repeatedly we have heard the general argument against an increase in rates, as though our recommendation is for a general increase. We don't want that at all. What we are driving at is a readjustment. We are not trying to economize or save money. We have done that to the best of our ability already, and want simply to increase the second class rate so that the first will pay for itself, believing that in this way the greater number of people will be served. In the end we can perhaps accomplish a thorough readjustment of all classes, and then there will be no necessity for a discussion about the indirect revenues which may come from second class mail. Each class will pay for itself.

"The additional increase of a cent a pound that the Department is seeking on second class mail would fall but lightly upon the thirty thousand publishers who are now admittedly earning a good profit upon their publications, and if recommended by this commission it would relieve the public from the present rate on letters, which could then be reduced."

The hearings of the commission ended Friday. Justice Hughes said he would receive briefs from those interested at his summer home, Bridgehampton, L. I., where he will remain throughout September.

BRITISH COPYRIGHT BILL PASSES HOUSE.

As noted in last week's PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY's cable despatch, the British copyright bill has passed the House of Commons, passing the third reading, "amid cheering," on the evening of August 17, substantially as already given in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY. It was taken up next day in the House of Lords; but, on the adjournment of Parliament on the 22d, went over till fall.

Sir Gilbert Parker moved an amendment providing that "in the case of an assignee of copyright becoming bankrupt the royalties due under the agreement to the author shall continue to be paid to the author by any purchaser of the rights of such assignee if the work is thereafter published, and if not thereafter published the copyright shall at once revert to the author."

The Solicitor-General (Sir J. Simon) said it was hardly possible in a copyright bill to deal with a subject which really involved an alteration of one of the principles of the bankruptcy law. If an author sold his copyright to a publisher and the publisher became bankrupt it was a bad thing for the author, but this was not the place to deal with it. The amendment was negatived.

Mr. Booth, amid considerable amusement, objected to the word "pirated" as used in the bill, as being slang and not a "delicate expression." Despite the protest of Sir William Anson, member for Oxford University, who thought the word "infringing" suggested by Mr. Booth "neither so clear nor so good English as 'pirated,'" Mr. Booth's amendment was accepted.

Mr. Joynson-Hicks moved to insert the following proviso at the end of clause 23: "In case of a foreign country under whose laws it is a condition precedent of protection being given to works that such works must have been in whole or in part manufactured in such foreign country, it shall be lawful for His Majesty, by Order in Council, to direct that the protection afforded by this Act shall not apply to works the authors or publishers whereof are subjects or citizens of such foreign country unless such works are wholly manufactured in the United Kingdom."

This clause was of course aimed at the manufacturing clause of the American law, and Mr. Joynson-Hicks pointed out at some length the injustice of the latter. Mr. Cassel seconded the amendment.

In debate the Solicitor-General said it was impossible to accept the amendment because it involved a breach of the Berlin Convention, while the result of introducing such a provision would certainly bring down upon an English author in the United States the loss of that protection which he now enjoyed. He was informed that it was quite a mistake to suppose that legislation would be required before English authors were denied copyright in the United States. It could be done on proclamation by the President.

Sir Gilbert Parker admitted that there was a certain grievance, but pointed out that formerly there was no copyright at all in the books of an English author in the United States, and that it was the work of twenty years to get the existing protection passed. It never would have been passed if it had not been for this clause, which was a compromise, both on the part of Great Britain and the United States. Every nation of Europe of any importance aimed at international reciprocity, and endeavored to put the arts on a reciprocal basis. The Solicitor-General was perfectly right when he pointed out the great danger to England if she adopted the retrograde policy of the United States. It might for the moment benefit the printer, but ultimately it would result in a very great loss. The amendment was, by leave, withdrawn.

TRADE PRESS ON MAIL RATE.

RESOLUTIONS regarding the postal regulations affecting second class matter were adopted by the Federation of Trade Press Associations, August 4, as follows:

Resolved, That the Federation of Trade Press Associations in the United States, regarding the present law affecting second-class mail matter as antiquated and inadequate, favors the enactment of a new law that shall be so simple, clear and specific that it will largely obviate the necessity for rulings by department officials, and that it can be administered uniformly in all the post-offices of the country.

While not insisting that the final rate of postage on second-class mail shall remain at one cent per pound, this Federation protests against any rate which would discriminate among the different classes of periodical publications, or newspapers, or between advertising and reading matter. It advocates a flat rate, applicable to all classes of publications properly admissible to the second class as the only kind of rate which is both just and workable.

It urges that no change in the second-class rates should be made to take effect in less than one year after its passage; and also that any rate fixed upon by Congress should be stable for a period of at least twenty years.

This Federation favors uniformity in the matter of requirements as to the retention of subscriptions after expiration so that all publications, daily, weekly or monthly, shall be treated alike.

It approves the recommendations of the third assistant postmaster-general as to the withdrawal of the minimum pound rate for sample copies and dead subscriptions and would approve more stringent regulations for the enforcement of such withdrawal.

It recommends the abolition of the requirement which now compels monthly publications to affix stamps to copies intended for delivery in their home districts.

The Federation strongly recommends that the post-office records of mailings of second-class matter shall be opened to public inspection. It also recommends that any new postal law should provide for a court or board of appeals from the rulings of department officials.

HOOPER VS. JACKSON AGAIN.

NOTICE of trial in a suit for $5,200,000 damages brought by Walter Montgomery Jackson against Horace Everett Hooper was filed in the Supreme Court Wednesday last. The parties were members of the corporation of Hooper & Jackson, Ltd., an English concern, which owns all the stock of the Encyclopædia Britannica Company.

The complaint states that on October 6, 1909, the parties owned 9994 shares of the corporation of Hooper & Jackson, being all but six shares, and 2498 shares of the Encyclopædia Britannica Company, which is all but four shares. Jackson alleges that Hooper has retained all the Hooper & Jackson stock except 300 shares, which he put in the names of others for his own purposes, and all the Encyclopædia Britannica stock as well as a $500,000 bond of the latter company.

Jackson says that he and Hooper were interested in other business enterprises, but that disagreements over general business policy led to the filing of suits in equity in New Jersey. Then Jackson submitted a buy or sell offer to Hooper, and alleges that Hooper wrote agreeing to sell out to him. He repudiated the agreement, however, and has excluded Jackson from participation in the business and has paid himself and subservient employees excessive salaries.

The complaint says that the securities which Hooper is retaining are worth $6,000,000, and that Jackson has suffered $5,200,000 damage by Hooper's acts. The complaint asks that either the agreement to sell be enforced or the damages paid, and that Hooper be required to pay back to the concerns the money he has taken illegally.

DON'T PUT IT ALL UP TO THE PUBLISHER.—Remember that a retailer can never solve certain problems without the co-operation of the manufacturer. There is a tendency among the narrow-minded to imagine that they do the manufacturer a favor to sell his goods. On the contrary, it is the latter who usually deserves the most credit. It is he who creates the idea and furnishes the goods that brings customers to the retail store. It is frequently said of good goods that they sell themselves; and this, in a measure, is true. The interests of the manufacturer and retailer are identical, and it pays for both to work hand in hand.—Geyer's Stationer.

POSTAL MATTERS.

PRIVATE STAMPS RESTRICTED.

In view of serious inconvenience in handling the mails on account of general use of adhesive stamps, other than United States postage stamps, Postmaster-General Hitchcock has issued a general order that no adhesive stamps except United States postage stamps shall be attached to the address side of the letter or package. The problem of handling such letters is so serious that it was decided that no stamps resembling United States postage stamps may be used on either side of mailed envelopes. This order will eliminate from the mails absolutely the Red Cross stamps and the McNamara defense fund stamps.

CHANGE IN AUDITING METHODS.

An order was issued by Postmaster-General Hitchcock Wednesday transferring from the office of the auditor for the department to the bureaus of assistant postmasters general administrative jurisdiction over all accounts for the transportation of mail. Hitherto the supervision of these accounts has been perfunctory. By this transfer all accounts, except those for the star service, will be examined by the Second Assistant Postmaster-General. The object of the order is to insure a double check on all transactions. The order will go into effect October 1, and is expected to result in further economy.

PARCELS POST ENDORSED BY POSTMASTER-GENERAL.

AFTER the close of the second class mail commission hearings was announced Mr. Hitchcock officially endorsed the parcels post movement.

"I am very much in favor of a parcels post," said Mr. Hitchcock, "but it must be established in a way that will enable the Post Office Department to care for it without interfering with the great volume of other classes of mail matter.

"I would like to see an enactment by Congress for a parcels post that would enable the Department first to install it locally on the rural free delivery systems. Then it can be extended as time and conditions permit, to the deliveries of the smaller and larger cities. After its handling along these lines has proved practicable, which it will do undoubtedly—but necessitating a careful and proper adjustment of conditions—then I would extend it to the railroad mail service and to all of the postal system.

"But to begin it at once, with the great volume of matter that would be thrown into the mails, would result in an endless confusion that would interfere with the quick and rapid delivery of the now existing classes of mail matter.

"I am sure this parcels post would prove a department of the service giving the Government a great revenue. Particularly it would be of vast benefit to the public living on the present free delivery routes. It is there that it can be installed without in the first instance interfering with existing postal conditions. Indeed, the parcels post could, with careful supervision, proper adjustment and organization, be made, I am certain, one of the Postal Department's greatest revenue earners."

WOOD PULP AND RECIPROCITY.

THE pulp question, which was supposed to present a serious obstacle to the success of reciprocity in Canada, on account of the provisional clause in the American law excluding from the benefits of the agreement wood pulp or pulpwood owned by the separate provinces upon which they laid an embargo, is turning out to be a help rather than a hindrance, says a correspondent to the Detroit Free Press. The product of private lands will be freely imported, and the result is a considerable boom in the value of these lands since the passage of the law at Washington. The Government lands represent no votes at all, while the owners of private lands are numbered by the thousands, not to speak of the many who will be employed in the work of production.

The Montreal Herald in an earlier report says that preparations have already been made for the investment of millions of American money in these lands and paper mills to turn their timber into paper for the American market. Already large areas have been taken up by American paper interests near Ottawa and along the St. Maurice River, and representations are being made to the Quebec Government that many millions more will be invested if the provincial export tax is removed. Senator W. C. Edwards, president of the Dominion Forestry Association, and a member of the Commission of Conservation, has written an open letter urging the immediate removal of the provincial prohibition of the export of wood pulp.

OBITUARY NOTES

EDWIN ASA DIX, author and a former editor of The Churchman, dropped dead before the National Arts Club, New York City, last week. He was born June 25, 1860, graduated from Princeton, and later studied law at Columbia. He was married Aug. 15, 1895, to Marion Alden Olcott. Though he was educated for the law, Mr. Dix devoted himself to literature and travel, and was the author of several novels. "Deacon Bradberry" and "Old Bowen's Legacy" were his two best known works. He also wrote "A Midsummer Drive Through the Pyrenees" and "Champlain, the Founder of France." He was a frequent contributor to magazines.

DE WITT MILLER, for many years a friend of the booktrade and intimate with its members all over the United States, although he was not himself a bookseller, died at Boise, Idaho, on July 29th. As a lecturer he travelled continually; but his joy was bookbuying, and few bookstores in the country have not sold to him. An intimate friend of Francis Wilson, the actor, and of Leon Vincent, of Cambridge, Mass. (whose book, "The Bibliotaph and Other People" was indeed suggested by him), Mr. Miller had a broad and judicious knowledge of books and their values. In his death the trade loses a loyal friend.

PERIODICAL NOTES.

A TEST of the "free" newspaper ended in Oklahoma City, Okla., last Saturday, when The Pointer and The Free Press, which for many months have made a stubborn fight for existence, were sold to The Times. The change of ownership marks the end of the newspaper war that has been waged there for the last three years. The free papers, which had been given away by the thousands, had proven a heavy financial loss to their owners, it was said.

NEGOTIATIONS were completed last week Friday for the purchase by the Columbian-Sterling Publishing Company through its president, Frank Orff, of the plant of the Winthrop Press, 419 Lafayette Street, New York City. The plant will be used for the publication of the various periodicals controlled by the Columbian-Sterling Publishing Company. The purchase price was in the neighborhood of $200,000, and half as much again will be spent in enlarging the equipment of the plant.

The World's Work seems to have solved the problem of a flat binding without sewing, a problem that has baffled magazine publishers. Of course at the present prices book stitching is quite out of the question. The usual wire stitch used is serviceable and much cheaper, but, especially with narrow inside margins, involves a continual and annoying hand strain on the reader to hold the magazine open. The new World's Work binding appears to consist of gluing the folded edges direct to a cloth backing, the cover being pasted as usual around the whole. Special machines have been installed to do the work.

THE HILL PUBLISHING COMPANY announced Tuesday that it had bought the Engineering News, which has been published weekly by its founder, George H. Frost, for the last thirty-eight years. Mr. Frost announced that he wanted to retire from the active work of publication, but said he would continue as chairman of the board of directors. Engineering News will continue in its present shape and form for a few weeks, and will then be cut down in size to conform to the standards of the other Hill publications. There will be no change in the editorial or business management of the paper. John A. Hill, president of the Hill Publishing Company, said that the price paid for Engineering News was probably the largest ever paid for any publication outside of the daily field. It is understood to be close to $1,000,000.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HOPKINSON SMITH's new novel, "Kennedy Square," published August 26, is already in its second large edition.

JEFFERY FARNOL, author of "The Broad Highway," will be represented in Dodd, Mead & Company's list this autumn by a new novel called "The Money Moon."

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY have just issued the fourth large edition of George Borup's amusing "A Tenderfoot with Peary," which was published only a few months ago.

"FLOWER o' THE PEACH" is the title of a story by an English writer, Perceval Gibbon, dealing with the race question in South Africa. It will be one of the Century Company's fall issues.

"A WEAVER OF DREAMS," as the title indicates, has the charm of fancy which distinguishes Myrtle Reed's books. This new love story will be published on September 8 by G. P. Putnam's Sons.

MRS. MAURICE HEWLETT, wife of the novelist, has obtained an aviator's certificate. She is the first woman to be thus honored in England. Mrs. Hewlett purchased a machine in the latter part of last year and has been an apt student.

AN interesting exhibition for all interested in paper testing will be given by the Electrical Testing Laboratories at the New York Electrical Exposition, from October 11 to 21, 1911. At booth No. 39, New Grand Central Palace, a paper-testing laboratory will be shown in operation.

CUPPLES & LEON COMPANY, who have acquired the exclusive book rights of "Daffydil," will publish a book under that title on September 15. "Tad," the cartoonist, has undoubtedly made a "hit" in this series, which is at the height of its popularity. A second edition of the book is now on the press.

A DARING theft of jewels from the Newport summer home of J. B. Lippincott, the Philadelphia publisher, was reported last Saturday. The estimated value of the stolen property is $2000. No clue to the robbers has been found, but it is suspected that a gang of professional burglars, using a fast motor boat, committed the crime.

THE annual fall announcement number of The Dial will appear, as usual, on September 16. The regular classified "List of Books Announced for Fall Publication" and the advertising pages of this issue are relied upon very generally by the retail trade, librarians and private buyers of books. This number is therefore an important and desirable book advertising medium.

A POPULAR book by Alice Calhoun Haines (whose "Partners for Fair" has just been announced as in press for Henry Holt & Company), which has just gone into a new printing, is "The Luck of the Dudley Grahams"—one of the first of the juveniles to employ an airship, though that vessel in this book does not meet with the astonishing success that it has in later ones.

THE writer's aim in "Wheat Growing in Canada, the United States and the Argentine," by W. P. Rutter, which is about to be published by A. & C. Black, is to give the economic, political, and geographical factors governing the growth of wheat in the New World, and to deduce from these conditions the possibilities and probabilities of the future growing of wheat in the Americas.

"HEART TO HEART RECIPES, A BRIDE'S FIRST COOK BOOK," is a unique souvenir for the newly engaged, in which friends may write their favorite recipe. For "showers" or engagement luncheons no more appropriate gift could be desired. The page decorations are by Grace Harlow. The book is printed in two colors and handsomely bound in cloth and velvet calf. H. M. Caldwell Co. are the publishers.

AMONG the important novels by D. Appleton & Company are Elinor Glyn's "The Reason Why," and "The Conflict," by David Graham Phillips, the former to be published September 8 and the latter September 15. "The Reason Why" has London social life as its setting and tells the story of a young woman who fell in love with her husband. In "The Conflict" Mr. Phillips has handled problems of capital and labor in America.

W. M. STITT, JR., formerly representing the Hayes Lithographing Co., of Buffalo, N. Y., has become associated with the American Type Co., of New York City, and will in the future represent it, making a specialty of calling on the larger buyers throughout the country. He has not definitely decided whether he will make his headquarters in New York City or Chicago, but thinks seriously of opening his office in the former city.

INASMUCH as 260,000 copies of "The Winning of Barbara Worth" were sold before publication, the Book Supply Company are now anticipating a sale of a round half million copies. They state that their advertising campaign will cost in excess of $77,000, significant items being $34,000 in magazine advertising, outside of full pages in the Ladies' Home Journal, Saturday Evening Post and Woman's Home Companion, $5000 in newspaper advertising, $2650 in Harold Bell Wright postcards, $4000 in circulars, etc.

A NEW "Up to Calvin's" volume by Laura E. Richards will be published September 16 by Dana Estes & Company, with the title, "On Board the 'Mary Sands'." It tells the story of what Calvin describes as the "best part of my life"—the time when he would "get restless like and smell blue water; and Mary would say, 'Let's we give the door-key to Mercy Lovely and tell Al to sleep in the stable a spell and we go off somewhere!'" And they would go, and have great times—even making a voyage to "Floridy" aboard the "Mary Sands."

To assist the sale of their Bibles, Thomas Nelson & Sons have changed the Bible part of their catalogue and arranged it according to the size of type. Every customer for a Bible has in mind three things, size of type, size of the book and the price. With this new arrangement the size of type, size of the Bible, and every price of that size Bible on white and India paper can be shown at a glance. This new arrangement was devised specially for the benefit of booksellers, and the Nelson Company will be greatly obliged for opinions and suggestions.

THE recent strikes in England have inconvenienced the book trade in common with other branches of business, though fortunately not as much as they would have done at any other season of the year. August marks the ebb of the year's book production in England, and the past month has been a specially quiet one. In some cases difficulty was experienced, however, in getting deliveries of books, the seaside booksellers, who are very busy at this time, suffering most. More serious was the holding up of deliveries of paper, forcing delay in the manufacture of many fall books.

On September 9 George H. Doran Company will publish a novel which has created a sensation in London and Paris, "The Re-Appearing; a Vision of the Return of Christ to Paris," by Charles Morice. It tells of the new advent of Christ into the modern world, and of his re-crucifixion on the cross of modern intellectuality. "Whom God Hath Joined" is the latest addition to the uniform edition of Arnold Bennett's novels. It is a study of divorce problems—neither a plea nor an indictment—but a dramatic presentation of what happened to two husbands and two wives of the "Five towns." A story of action, mystery and adventure is "The Heart of a Woman; the Mystery of a Taxicab," by Baroness Orczy, also to be published on September 9.

"HILDA LESSWAYS," as the work of an author recognized as one of the leaders in the literary world, Arnold Bennett, will no doubt be eagerly welcomed on its publication day, September 25. The publishers are E. P. Dutton & Company, who also published the author's "Clayhanger," in which Hilda Lessways was first seen. Remarkable skill is shown in the way in which the new story presents the point of view of the woman who, in "Clayhanger," was seen through the hero's eyes. "The Heart of Life," by another author of immense popularity, Pierre de Coulevain, describes the married life, the estrangement and the coming together of a young married couple. It is told with the personal touch which gives distinctive charm to the work of this French authoress, whose "On the Branch" was one of the most popular novels of the year both in France and America.

ALL sorts of stories for fairy-tale lovers are included among the new publications of Rand, McNally & Company. For instance, there is "The Rose Fairies," full of fairy fancies, by Olivia McCabe, with twelve pictures in color by Hope Dunlap; "The Garden of Hearts' Delight," by Ida Huntington, telling of a lovely baby to whom the fairies gave the wonderful gift of imagination; "Edda and the Oak," what a little tot learned of nature's secrets in a magical country, by Elia Peattie; and "The Enchanted Peacock," a book of fairy tales by Julia Brown. All are attractively illustrated in color. William L. Hill's "Jackieboy in Rainbowland," illustrated by Fanny Y. Cory, tells the strange experiences of a little boy in a wonderful land of dashing colors. A book of pretty verses by Wilhelmina Seegmiller has the title "Other Rhymes for Little Readers." This house is also publishing a player's edition of Longfellow's "Hiawatha," with fifty-six sepia duotones and eight color illustrations, and "The Joy of Gardens," a book filled with the garden spirit rather than a manual, by Lena May McCauley.

PICK-UPS.

THE CUB AND THE EDITOR

A CERTAIN editor had cause to admonish his son on account of his reluctance to attend school.

"You must go regularly and learn to be a great scholar," said the fond father encouragingly; "otherwise you can never be an editor, you know. What would you do, for instance, if your paper came out full of mistakes?"

The boy looked up into his parent's face with childish innocence.

"Father," he said solemnly, "I'd blame 'em on the printer!"

And then the editor fell upon his son's neck and wept tears of joy. He knew he had a successor for the editorial chair.—London Tit-Bits.

SAVING TIME ON MANUSCRIPTS.

"THIS fellow has a unique trick for getting his manuscripts into a more rapid circulation," said the editor of a magazine the other day. "He encloses not one envelope addressed back to himself, but several envelopes which are addressed to other magazines.

"Now, in this letter I am instructed to send the manuscript to a certain other publication in case I do not decide to buy it. That other publication is in turn told in the letter which is contained in the envelope addressed to it that it must send the manuscript on to another magazine in case it is not acceptable. I see that it works well, for the man sells all of his things somewhere or other. And he evidently gets rid of them with a minimum of effort and trouble on his part, and in a very short time, too."

BOOKS WANTED

Under this head booktrade subscribers, under their own names, are given five nonpareil lines (exclusive of address) free advertisement for books out of print in any issue except special numbers, but not exceeding 100 lines a year. If over five lines are sent the excess is at 10 cents a line. Books not out of print, repeated matter, and all advertisements from nonsubscribers cost 10 cents a line. Objectionable books are excluded so far as they are noted.

In answering, please state edition, condition and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that will deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis should put [Cash] after their firm name. The appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the WEEKLY, does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it endeavors to safeguard its columns by withdrawing their use from irresponsible advertisers, bookshoppers should take usual precautions in extending credit.

Write your wants plainly, on one side of the sheet only. Illegible "wants" are ignored. The WEEKLY is not responsible for errors. Parties with whom there is no account must pay in advance.

Announcement Extraordinary

At last a really new, strictly up-to-date, authentic encyclopedia in convenient size and at a popular price. The neat flexible India paper Bible has supplanted the old fashioned cumbersome family Bible—we have applied the same principle to an Encyclopedia. For years the subscription book houses have monopolized the Encyclopedia field simply because it was thought that an Encyclopedia to be complete and impressive must be a ponderous set of bulky volumes requiring a special book case—plenty of room and to be sold on installments at a fancy price.

The Practical American Encyclopedia is the result of ten years of painstaking effort, and produced at an expenditure of $35,000.00.

Two flexible volumes—2700 double column octavo pages—printed on special Bible paper—nearly a thousand illustrations with numerous halftones and maps in four colors, etc.

The Entire Contents of this Massive Five-Volume Set Are Contained in these two Handy, Flexible Volumes.

Both sets have the SAME NUMBER OF PAGES AND SAME SIZE OF TYPE, but new methods of bookmaking and the use of thin Bible paper have made the small convenient volumes possible

The Practical American Encyclopedia is a master work in the art of bookmaking. The pages were but recently set up from especially cast type and printed from new plates from which impressions have never been previously taken, contains all new, up-to-date, thoroughly encyclopedic matter, covering a very wide range.

Don't confuse this work with the many so-called new Encyclopedias sometimes offered, which are merely patched-up editions that were originally published a decade ago.

The editorial staff is guided by Prof. Bernhart Paul Holst, an educator of wide experience, who has for the past twelve years devoted his time exclusively to encyclopedic work. Assisting are sixty well-known educators, principals of universities, state superintendents, college professors, historians, superintendents of schools, judges, army officers, United States and Canadian government officials and teachers from all parts of the United States and Canada selected for their particular ability in relation to subjects required—men who thoroughly understand the most approved way of using the English language in a practical, useful and concise Encyclopedia that will stand the test of daily use.

It includes every phase of discovery, invention, experience and belief, covers all epochs of literature, all forms of government, all systems of religion—all the glorious achievements that have made history luminous and civilization possible.

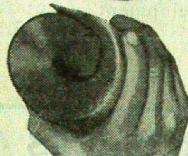

It treats with latest topics of public interest, i. e., Panama Canal, wireless telegraphy, reciprocity, political economy, the Polar expeditions, the progress of aviation, the great strides of the automobile industry, wondrous improvements in harvesting machinery, etc.

Bound in two styles, Vellum De Luxe cloth and Seal Grain American Morocco, indexed and sewn with fine linen thread, colored edges, heavy end sheets, side title and backbone embossed in gold and bound perfectly flexible, so that the volume can be taken between the thumb and fingers and covers bent clear back without the risk of injury.

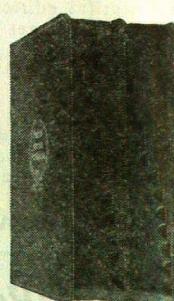

We recommend that every dealer order a few sets—they are exceptional value. Similar sets sell by subscription at $19.50 to $30.

Vellum De Luxe Cloth, 2 Vol. Sets.....$2.75
Seal Grain American Morocco, 2 Vol. Sets... 3.25

Bound so flexible that it can be opened flat clear back or rolled like a music roll.
